

Bachelor in

Politics, Philosophy & Economics (B.A.)

Your Profile

You are interested in economics – but not the one that is limited to mathematics. You know that the world is more than just profit and simple cost/benefit analyses that leave people out. You have always wondered why it is always economists that are asked about crises in the media when philosophers are never asked for a solution. You long for answers to the questions about equitable co-existence and fair trade. You strive to find a different approach to an economic system that brings prosperity to all.

Key Information

With this study program, you will learn to use politics as a practical tool for reason that you will be able to use within the differences of various cultures that clash with the globalization of economies.

You will be able to resolve conflicts by debate, not just expressing your point of view, but rather to correctly argument where you stand.

With this bachelor, discover how the contents of Politics, Philosophy and Economics interlock. In a semester abroad, the students can specialize their skills at one of our partner universities.
